

Saving a reference from Primo to your EndNote Web library:

1. On the chosen reference in Primo, open either of the tabs View Full text, Details or More.
2. Click on Send to in the upper right corner of the box, then choose EndNote Web in the list

The screenshot shows a Primo record page. The record title is "Studying Interpersonal Communication in Organizations: A Leadership Application" by Penley, Larry E. ; Hawkins, Brian. The journal is "The Academy of Management Journal, 1985, Vol.28(2), pp.309-326 [Peer Reviewed Journal]". The page has tabs for "View Full Text", "Details", "More", and "Similar". A "Send to" menu is open in the top right corner, listing options: "Add to e-Shelf", "Remove from e-Shelf", "E-mail", "Print", "EndNote Web", "RefWorks", "Connotea", "EndNote Local", "del.icio.us", and "Export RIS". An arrow labeled "1" points to the "Details" tab, and an arrow labeled "2" points to the "EndNote Web" option in the "Send to" menu.

3. A new window will open with EndNote web, login if necessary. You will get the status message that your record was imported and the reference will be added automatically to your library as Unfiled.

The screenshot shows the EndNote Web interface. The header includes "ENDNOTE® WEB" and "WEB OF KNOWLEDGE™". Below the header are three main sections: "My References", "Collect", and "Organize". Under "Collect", there are links for "Online Search", "New Reference", and "Import References". The main content area displays "Primo Import Results" and "Number of records imported: 1".

4. You may need to edit the reference in EndNote Web. Click on the title in your library and make sure all information is entered in the right field, if not enter the correct information.

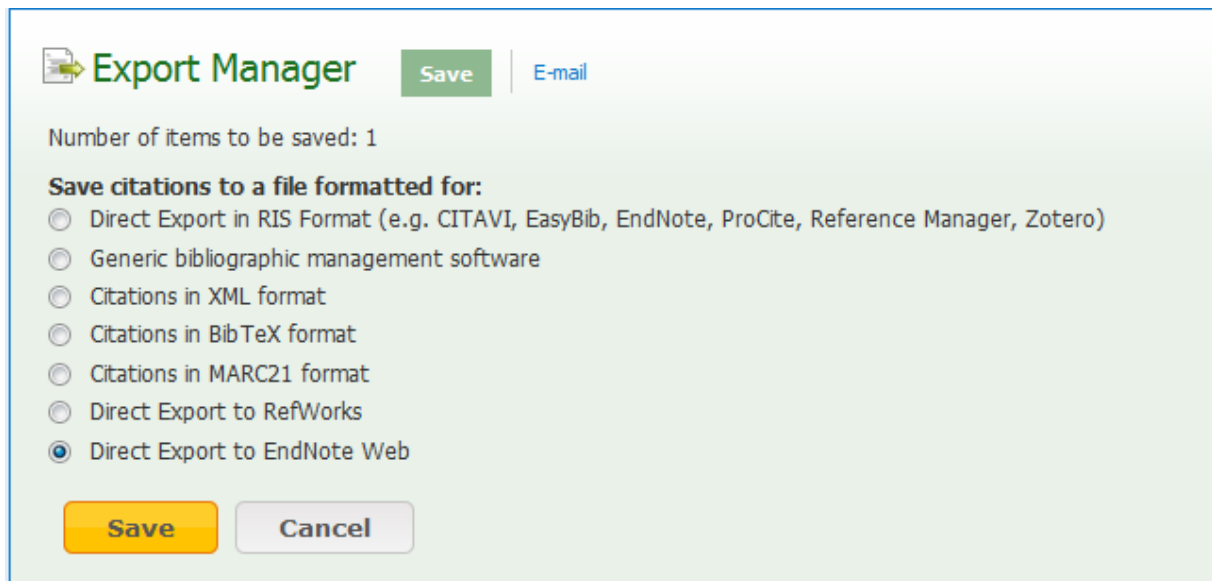

Saving a reference from EBSCO to your EndNote Web Library

EBSCO databases include: Academic Search Elite, Amed, Business Source Premier, Cinahl, Econlit, ERIC, Historical Abstracts, Gender Studies Database, Sport Discus.

1. Click on the title of the record you want to save
2. From the tools menu on the right of the article abstract click the Export icon

3. Choose Direct export to Endnote Web, then Save

4. Import done!

If you want to export several records at the same time in an EBSCO database, choose records by clicking Add to folder. Then open folder in the top, blue frame. Follow steps 2-4 above.

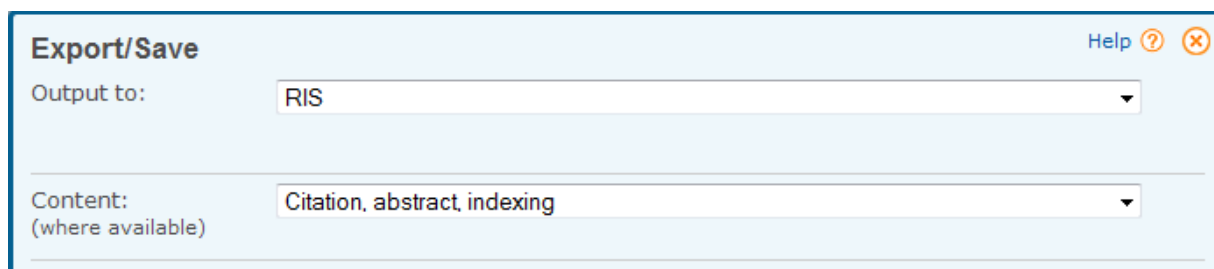

Saving a reference from ProQuest to your EndNote Web library

ProQuest databases include: Biological Sciences, Communication Abstracts, Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, Physical Education Index, Pilots Database, PsycInfo, Social Services Abstracts, Sociological Abstracts, WorldWide Political Science Abstracts.

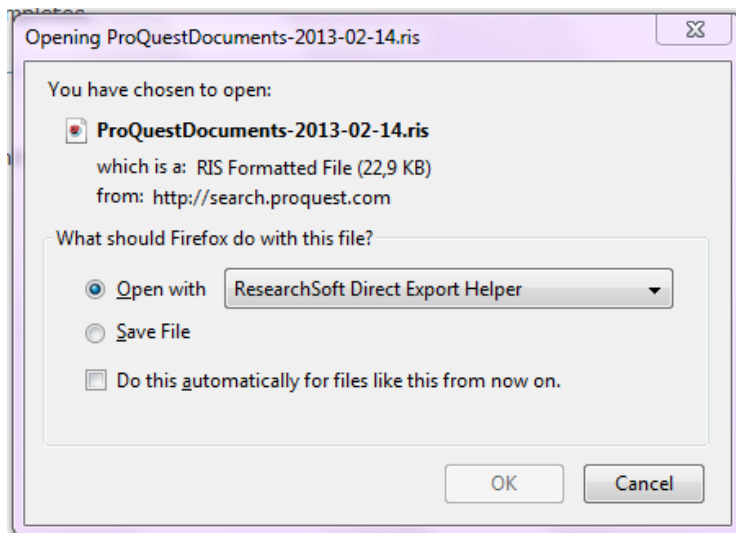

1. Open the record you want to save
2. Go to Export/save in the pane above your results

3. Choose RIS-format (or EndNote...) and continue.

4. Choose to open the file with ResearchSoft Direct export helper. This is how it looks in Firefox (it differs from how it looks in Explorer):

5. The new reference will appear in your library.

If you want to export several records at the same time from a ProQuest database, choose records by marking them in the result list. Then follow steps 2-5 above.

Saving a reference from Pubmed to your EndNote Web library

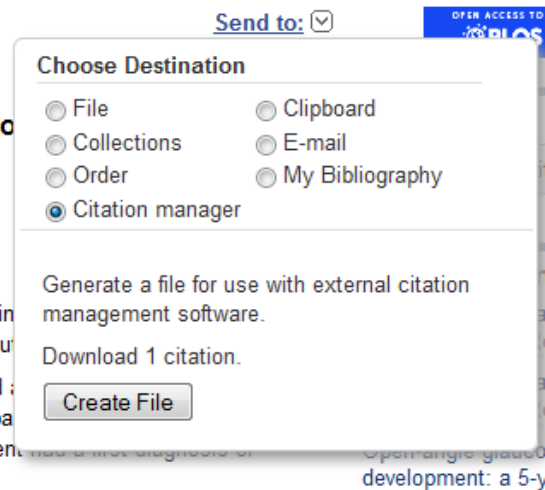

1. Perform a search, open the record you want to save
2. Click Send to in the upper right corner of the record
3. Mark Citation manager and click Create file

0049113. Epub 2012 Nov 7.

Insomnia and Long-term Use of Hypnotics: A Population

Ching, National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan.

to be associated with dementia. However, the relationship between insomnia and the risk of dementia in patients with long-term insomnia and the contribution of insomnia to the risk of dementia in patients with long-term insomnia in the longitudinal Health Insurance Database. The study cohort comprised 1,200,000 patients from 2000 to 2007. The comparison cohort consisted of randomly selected patients from 3 years from their insomnia index date to identify whether the patients had a first diagnosis of dementia. Hazard ratios (HRs) and 95% confidence intervals (CIs).

4. Open file [with ResearchSoft Direct Export Helper]
5. The new reference will appear in your library.

If you want to save several records at the same time from Pubmed, mark the records in the result list. Follow steps 2-5.